REPORT FROM THE FRATERNAL DELEGATES TO THE DELAVAN CONVENTION.

The National Association of the Deaf was represented at the Convention of Teachers at Delavan by three fraternal delegates appointed in response to an invitation from Dr. Dobyns at the Colorado Convention. The delegates were A. L. Pach, P. J. Hasenstab and W. I. Tilton, some of those first appointed being unable to attend. A letter from Mr. Tilton gives a full account of the work, from which the following extracts are made:—

"We followed closely your instructions to present our case with all possible courtesy and in a manner to give no offense whatever. I took the ground that we were simply the guests of the Convention, and were bound by all the rules of hospitality to so conduct ourselves that our presence would be a cause for pleasure and remembrance. We were introduced to the Convention following the business session, Tuesday morning, Dr. Gallaudet presiding, and were most courteously received. In fact, it almost amounted to a demonstration. Having been chosen spokesman for the delegation, I spoke as follows, orally, Mr. Hasenstab translating into sign:—

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention: It is unnecessary for us to express the pleasure that we have in appearing before you today as fraternal delegates from the National Association of the Deaf and extending greeting on behalf of that organization. At the Colorado Springs Convention we had the pleasure of receiving, as representatives of the Teachers' Association, Drs. Dobyns and Argo, and we are glad of this opportunity to 'return their call.'

"You are doubtless familiar with the object and aims of the Association, which may be broadly stated as having in view the welfare and advancement of the deaf as a whole; and you are doubtless also aware that its membership embraces over three hundred representative and influential deaf citizens of America.

"Let us assure you in a fraternal way that your efforts in behalf of deaf children, educational, moral, spiritual, industrial and social, have not been in vain. The existence and activity of the Association in the past three decades is ample evidence of the good your work has produced.

"Another evidence is manifested in the many pursuits of industrial, professional and educational life undertaken by the deaf in all parts of the country, and their happy social life among the hearing as well as in their own midst.

"We have with us copies of resolutions adopted at the Colorado Springs Convention embodying the ideas of the Association upon the sign-language, to which we would respectfully invite your consideration.

"We are indeed glad to be here with our friends and teachers, and trust that the relations so pleasantly established between the two organizations may be long continued.

P. J. HASENSTAB, Illinois.
W. I. TILTON, Illinois.
Fraternal Delegates, N. A. D.

"The resolutions were read by the Secretary, Prof. Day, and were placed upon the records of the Convention. I believe we accomplished some good, and that it would be a good idea to extend an invitation for the teachers to send fraternal delegates to the next meeting of the N. A. D., and that friendly relations should be maintained. Dr. Gallaudet was most courteous, and Dr. Dobyns was also accommodation itself. In short, everything came out all right, and I am sure the other delegates feel as I do.

"It was a fine convention, and it was remarked on every hand what a fine showing the deaf members made. While of course we could not accomplish so very much in actual results, still the influence was there, and was respected.

"Hoping that you will find all satisfactory, and glad to have been able to be of some service to the Association, I remain

Fraternally yours,
W. I. TILTON."

In behalf of the N. A. D. I wish to thank the delegates, and particularly express appreciation of the courteous spirit in which they performed their mission, which cannot but have a favorable effect on the relations between the deaf and their teachers.

President, N. A. D.

THE NEXT CONVENTION.

SOUTHERN GOVERNORS ENDORSE ATLANTA.

A number of letters from governors of southern states have been forwarded by the Atlanta deaf. The following from the Governor of Mississippi may be taken a representative of these letters:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.
JACKSON, MISS.,
MAY, 19, 1911.

MRS. C. L. JACKSON, Secretary,
Ga. Ass'n of the Deaf, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR MADAM: I am in receipt of a letter from Mr. George William Veditz, Chairman of the World's Congress of the Deaf, stating that an effort will be made to have the next convention of the National Association held at Atlanta, Ga.

I sincerely trust that Atlanta may be chosen by the National Executive Committee. From every standpoint, it is an ideal place. Few places in this country are so well adapted on account of hotel accommodations, railway connections and climate as Atlanta for a convention of any sort. I give my unqualified endorsement of Atlanta.

Sincerely,
E. F. NOEL.

Letters of similar import have been received from the Governors of Louisiana, Kentucky, Florida, Virginia, Texas and North Carolina, have been received. Some are addressed to Mr. Veditz, and some to Mrs. Jackson. All are written in May, 1911. Letters from the governors of other States have already been published.

CLEVELAND'S MODESTY.

The silence of Cleveland after sending in its invitation to the N. A. D. to meet there has been something of a puzzle. A private letter from Mrs. Bates to a friend which I have had the privilege of reading, however, explains the matter, and in a way highly creditable to the Cleveland deaf. Mrs. Bates, who is the leader among the deaf of Cleveland, taking the ground that having extended a courteous and cordial invitation to the N. A. D. it is for the latter to accept it or not. In either event the deaf of Cleveland will be satisfied. If the invitation is accepted, although no specific promises have been made, there is no question but that the convention will be entertained in a fitting manner.

Mrs. Bates also advances as a reason why the Association should meet in Cleveland that the interest of the deaf in the Association would be awakened, and many new members secured. She will also urge the deaf to join the Association, whether the convention is held there or elsewhere. A number of Ohio deaf have recently been enrolled as members, and I hope to see many more on our lists before the next convention.

This question is now open for motion and discussion by members of the Executive Committee, if any desire to express their views.

Cyrus Meisel

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

It was with feelings of the profoundest sorrow that we learned of the great bereavement of the family of Mr. Alexander and Sophie Meisel, who lost, by untimely death, their youngest son and brother Cyrus, July 18, 1911, at 11:50 A. M.

There is something particularly sad in the fact that Cyrus' death came on the very day when many friends sent out birthday cards of cordial greeting—for the anniversary of his natal day occurred on the following day.

Cyrus' death was primarily due to a cold contracted over a year ago, while on a visit to his grandparents, which developed into pneumonia of a serious character. He pulled through this, but was left with a very weak heart and later developed into a dangerous case of heart trouble. The end came when he was seized by a sudden attack of heart failure.

The news that he had passed away came as a severe shock to his family; his poor mother was prostrated and his wide circle of friends were shocked and grieved as evinced by numerous letters and telegrams of condolence.

His devoted mother was constantly with him through all his illness. His father and his brother, Samuel, did all that could be done with an affection which was unwearied in its countless ministering attentions.

Their skilled and faithful family physician, Dr. J. W. Edgerly, their nurses and noted specialists, did everything in their power to heal and comfort.

Sad, indeed, is the death of this lovely, promising boy—a handsome, robust child, fine of form and feature, with a strong, classical head, and a healthy, glowing countenance. He grew to be five feet seven, of a jovial disposition, brimming over with humor and fun.

Cyrus Meisel was born on July 19, 1896, right where the great Pennsylvania Railroad Station is now located. From his childhood he was an unusually bright, precocious lad, observant and very clever in manipulating everything that came to his notice. His parents being deaf, when but seven years old, he devised an electric apparatus that would indicate at which door of their apartment entrance was being sought. At twelve, he constructed most cleverly, a wireless telegraph, with his own hands, at a nominal cost—a neat piece of work—and has sent and received messages to and from miles distant. Wireless posts can be seen on the roof of his home, from a distance.

He acquired his studies at school with ease and was a ready writer, concise and to the point. Was an assiduous reader of good literature. Though not deaf himself he learned to use clear, expressive signs and, at all times, cheerfully interpreted stories and oral conversations to his less fortunate parents and friends. He took a keen interest in doings of the deaf and in the work of the Fanwood School in their successful and enviable record in competition with the hearing community in literary, athletic or military contests, and marvelled at the excellence of their deaf military band.

The funeral took place from his late residence, 362 Cypress Avenue, on Thursday, July 20th, at one o'clock.

The body was encased in a white casket and there was an abundance of flowers, sent by relatives, friends and neighbors, as a token of love and admiration for the manly child of fifteen summers.

Rev. Dr. M. Fried officiated, accompanied by an interpreter. His address was simple, impressive and yet so eloquent and affecting, there was no dry eye in the assemblage, yet it was as sweet music to the ears of the mourners. He referred feelingly to the untimely taking away of this good soul, commending the stricken ones to Him, who, in His infinite wisdom saw fit to recall this loved one home first, to a better world, free from sorrow and suffering, where all will meet again. Following services, the remains were placed in a white hearse and, accompanied only by relatives and a few friends, were laid to rest in Union Field Cemetery. The services at the cemetery were short—a prayer was offered and the hymn, The Lord Is My Shepherd, rendered in signs.

Writing editorially, the Towanda, Pa., Review recently gave a description of the home without a newspaper, presenting a woeful picture of depravity, ignorance and desolation. There is a brighter side to the story in the substantial fact that few homes can be found where the newspaper is not in evidence. In nearly every hamlet there is somebody who can read, and that somebody first of all wants the newspaper, even though everything else of literary character is excluded. Old and young alike give first attention to the local publication, and re-read, passing from hand to hand, the enjoyment and satisfaction derived is heightened by the pleasurable anticipation of looking forward to the coming of the next issue. Books are good, magazines have much to commend them, but the local newspaper, with its multifarious record of facts and fancy, is the ne plus ultra of attraction to the whole household. Heads of families want it, recognition is given to the fact that the children must have it, and mutually they enjoy it and are made wiser and happier and more up-to-date by the information it contains. Strengthened mentally, socially and morally, they come to know and believe that the home without the newspaper—if such a home can be found—does not deserve the name, because the great contributor to happiness, to sound thinking, to right living, and to moral and social upbuilding is wanting to complete the picture. The local paper is ever mindful of the welfare of the community, and in season and out of season is exerting its influence to this end, regardless of the fact that perhaps sometimes its pecuniary interests would point it in an opposite direction. Oh, yes, the town, the community without a newspaper might as well cut off the earth, for without this great booster and moral lever the average public will know little about it—and care less.

Miss Ella Corey is reported to be improving as a result of treatment for her arm at the hospital. From the effects of rheumatism the arm became stiff and might have become entirely useless. Her illness has been painful and of long duration.

Do you remember a set of upper teeth mentioned in this paper lost at the circus?

The owner was chewing pop corn on the benches when he shed his upper gallery teeth on the grass floor of the big tent. He suspected one of the elephants might have carried off the teeth in his trunk.

But what is the use of fooling about a sad accident that should stir us to tears. A friend read the article in the JOURNAL and the owner appeared and received the goods. He wore a big smile as he walked away. Probably to show his upper teeth.

Fred King stopped a runaway team in Vestal. The owner of the rig was delighted, overwhelmed with joy and overflowing with gratitude. He actually presented Mr. King with a cigar. Mr. King was lucky that the generous chap did not sue him for damages.

The recent marriage of Mr. Samuel Hutton and Miss Edith Gray, recently celebrated in Bingo, has proved a source of general congratulations among friends whose best wishes they command.

Hamilton King is busy over in Broome County selling the dailies and meeting with encouraging success.

The new Delhi, N. Y., ball team from the Sandy Hook reservation, landed, in that town, a nice little bunch of cherubs under the wings of the star manager. A big crowd of Delhi fans awaited the arrival of the O. & W. train to see the angels make a landing on Delhi soil. They certainly look like a bunch of roosters that can flap their wings and crow for victory. Among the men that the manager has brought to Delhi is the celebrated T. A. Mulacy, a graduate of the Westchester School for the Deaf.

Mr. Fred King, Mayor of Laurel Avenue, is a funny man who will unfurl your best 3 x 7 smile, and start you home in a roar.

The annual picnic of the R. A. A. of the Rome school will be held at Sylvan Beach, Saturday, August 5th.

FRED LLOYD.

CINCINNATI.

Our boys lost the game to the Elizabethtown team at Elizabethtown, O., the afternoon of the 30th. Mahoney could not control the ball, and he allowed eighteen hits. Herzog retired in the fourth inning, having been hit on the left side of his nose by a pitched ball while he was at bat. He was almost knocked unconscious and some of the players carried him to the bench, and as soon as they put some water on his head to prevent the bleeding he felt better. He went to the right field and Himelinski took his place. A one-handed catch of a grounder by Taylor was the feature when G. Hayes made a hot liner to him in the seventh inning. Lafferty pitched in splendid style with a lightning ball, and our boys could not hit him. A good crowd witnessed the contest. The score:—

BALTIMORE.

The subjoined item clipped from the Baltimore American, of Thursday, August 3d, is quite accurate as details, and we need only add that Mr. and Mrs. Hale left Baltimore on their honeymoon amid a shower of rice, old shoes and congratulations of their friends:

A romantic meeting of two deaf-mutes from widely separated sections of the country, which took place at Tolchester a year ago, during the annual excursion of the Maryland Deaf-Mute Association, ended in a wedding ceremony in the sign language last night, at Grace Episcopal Church, Park Avenue and Monument Street, when Miss Ina Elizabeth Rogers, of Elkton, Va., and Mr. Walter M. Hale, of Hartford, Ct., were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Oliver J. Whildin, rector of the deaf-mute mission of the Church.

The groom was attended by Mr. Mr. Benjamin Smith, also a deaf-mute. The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. William Rogers, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Rogers, of Elkton. She wore a dark blue travelling dress, with gloves to match. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hale left for Elkton, where they will remain for a week or ten days. They will go to Philadelphia later, and finally to Hartford, where they will reside.

It was a case of love at first sight when the couple met at the Tolchester excursion. The groom, who is employed in Hartford, came to Baltimore to spend his annual vacation, and while here went down the bay with the Deaf-Mute Association. The bride of last night was living in the city at the time, and she also went on the excursion. They were introduced at the popular resort, and on reaching Baltimore Mr. Hale escorted Miss Rogers to her home, which is also the home of Rev. Mr. Whildin. Mr. Hale returned to his home in Connecticut, but on Thanksgiving Day he came back to Baltimore and again met Miss Rogers. Their correspondence became more frequent after that visit.

Mr. Hale came to Baltimore again at Christmas, and it was then that the plans for the wedding were laid, after the couple had taken Rev. Mr. Whildin into their confidence.

Mrs. Hale received her education at the Staunton School for the Deaf. Her husband received his education at the Hartford School for the Deaf, the first school of its kind to be founded in the United States. It was built in 1815.

The Annual Picnic of the Deaf of Maryland took place at Druid Hill Park, Grove No 8, on Wednesday afternoon, August 2d. There were about seventy-five people present, a much smaller number than usually attends these annual affairs. It is to be regretted that the committee appointed to arrange the affair did nothing whatever, and as a matter of fact only one was present.

And yet, in justice to the members who were named by some one not yet ascertained, it must be said that they were not consulted in the matter of their appointment and knew nothing until the daily papers of a day or two previous announced their names. As a result the usual pleasant games and competitive events were missing. This caused much comment and literally a small sized revolt. Rev. D. E. Moylan was the first to voice his displeasure in a speech that was well received. He urged the formation of a Committee to take charge of next year's picnic and after considerable discussion it was resolved by unanimous vote of all present to form a distinct organization with officers in charge. The organization received the name of the Annual Picnic of the Deaf of Maryland and the following officers were elected. Chairman, William Aaron Friedenreich; Secretary, Rev. O. J. Whildin; and Treasurer, Mrs. H. M. Leitner. Rev. D. E. Moylan, Miss Annie Barry, Mr. George Gallion and Mr. Harry Benson, were later named as an Advisory Board to the officers of the Association. Mrs. Leitner, the treasurer, soon after her election, collected a nice large sum by popular subscription. This money will be used to provide prizes and other forms of amusement for the picnic next year. Officers of the association will be elected annually at each picnic.

Among those present were Mr. Miller of Gallaudet College and his mother, Mrs. and the Misses Turnt, Miss Spencer, Rev. and Mrs. Whildin and two daughters, Mr. Gallion, Mr. Fowble, of Greenmount, Mr. Hays and Wallace Edgington, of Washington, Mr. Plowman, of Perryman, Miss Cooper and Mr. and Mrs. Cairnes, Mr. and Mrs. Ayres and children, Mr. and Mrs. Smithson and daughter, also Miss Perego, Mrs. Kampe, Mrs. Nicol and sons and daughters, Miss Carey, Miss Waters, Miss Wiegand, Rev. and Mrs. Moylan, Miss Thompson, Miss Wood, Miss Webster, Mr. Frank Smith, a blind deaf-mute, and others too numerous to mention.

Thursday, the 3d, was spent by the picnicers at the time honored Tolchester Beach. The numerous amusements at the resort were well patronized and a large number went in bathing in the surf. The number at Tolchester was estimated to be larger than the number at the picnic, which perhaps goes to show that although the beach has become as ancient as the far-famed Jericho and has been as frequently and eloquently abused by those desiring a change, there are still hundreds who cling to the place and will cling to it forever. Beware of the fate of Lot's wife—who clung too fondly and too longingly to Sodom and Gomorrah and was turned into a bag of salt.

Among the recent visitors in Baltimore was a Mr. Clarke, of Denver, Col., a bookbinder by trade, who is travelling for the benefit of his health.

Miss Nora Horton, of Newport News, Va., is resting at the Church Home and Infirmary on Broadway, and expects to remain there several months. Miss Horton is suffering from a general break-down and besides is nearly blind.

On account of the unexpected death of the mother of Mrs. Cloud, the Rev. J. H. Cloud found it necessary to postpone his visit to Baltimore from the 6th to the 13th inst. Goodly congregations awaited the minister at both St. Barnabas Mission, Washington, and Grace Mission, Baltimore, but when his absence was explained much sympathy was expressed for the minister and his wife. Rev. Mr. Cloud may expect other good-sized congregations on the 13th inst. also. In his place Rev. Mr. Whildin preached on the "Significance and Application of the Transfiguration" and afterwards administered the Holy Communion.

The deluge of rain which visited Baltimore on the evening of Thursday, August 3d, caught nearly every one of the Tolchester excursionists unprepared. It came shortly after the returning boat had discharged her passengers, and as many had to go long distances to reach their homes, the plight which confronted them can best be imagined than described. So great was the downpour and so great the rushing waters at one point, that one young man escorting two young ladies had to repeat his afternoon experience in the surf at Tolchester.

THE South Carolina Deaf will assemble at Cedar Spring, S. C., August 15th, and for three days will enjoy the hospitality of the Institution in the first re-union of graduates and former pupils that has ever been held in the State. The work of organizing a State Association of the Deaf will occupy the second session of the meeting. The moving spirit in this progressive move is Joseph Walter Glover, whose aspirations are in keeping with his stature, which is something like six and a half feet. A souvenir program has been issued, embellished with half-tones of the first pupil of the Cedar Springs Institution; Newton Pinckney Walker, its founder; Samuel Farrow, "the originator of the idea of a school;" Walter Crafts, Jr., "co-partner of Farrow;" the President of the Cedar Spring Institute; Joseph Walter Glover, Organizer of the South Carolina Association of the Deaf;" and a perspective view of the Cedar Spring Institute in 1858. The program is outlined in another column of this issue, and shows quite a big and broad variety of things planned for those who attend.

THE Kansas Association of the Deaf will convene at Leavenworth on August 24th, continuing till the 26th. They have circulated big handbills giving particulars of the expected social and touring features, and what we like best of all, on the circular is prominently set forth that the main reason for the convention is "Discussions and plans looking to the Welfare of the Deaf of the State." Mr. J. J. Dold, of Olathe is President of the association, and H. G. Sickel, of Leavenworth, has local arrangements in charge.

THE appointment of S. Tefft Walker to the superintendency of the Missouri Institution for the Deaf at Fulton, is very gratifying. Mr. Walker is a man of large experience in the educational work among deaf-mutes. He has filled every grade from supervisor to teacher, and finally principal and superintendent. He was for years at the head of the Illinois Institution and for long terms superintendent of two other State schools. He is a broad-minded man, well equipped in practical experience, general ability and temperament for the position to which he has been appointed. During the past few years Mr. Walker has been in the West, but he has always kept in touch with educational matters and been friendly and helpful to the adult deaf, lecturing before them in big cities when opportunity afforded. We wish him all kinds of success.

THE news letter from Piqua, O., will be published if the writer sends his real name. We do not publish anonymous communications.

Misconduct?—Yes.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—In your last issue but one Mr. Hanson attempts to justify his conduct in the motion made by Mr. Freeman, of the Executive Committee of the N. A. D., under date of September 5th, 1910, that the invitation of Atlanta to hold the next convention there be accepted.

As is well known the motion was never submitted to the committee. Mr. Hanson's argument in defence of his course is pretty much on this order.

The moon is made of green cheese. Many people of tender years or simple minds believe that there is a man in the moon.

A man needs sustenance. Green cheese is sustenance. Therefore the moon is made of green cheese. Q. E. D.

Mr. Hanson holds me up to the view of your readers as a warning example of the way in which things should not be done in matters of the N. A. D. He inflates his chest and pats himself thereon as a virtuous example of the lawful and orderly way of doing things.

For example, he deprecates with a sad, grief-stricken countenance, my habit of railroading—my dear friend is welcome to use this expression—motions through the committee, and by way of contrast and with a joyous smile points to his own ox-cart and ice-wagon methods.

As usual, our good friend dodges the point at issue. He did not withhold the Freeman motion in order to give his—by his own implication—thickwitted, wooden-headed committee confers an opportunity to learn one another's views. Far from it, I have his statement in black and white that he did not choose to present the motion, because he thought there was no need of hurrying a decision. Our portly friend knew as well as you or I, Mr. Editor, the positions and preferences of a majority of the committee on the subject at issue—whether Atlanta should have the convention of 1913 or Omaha. He knew that if the motion were put then and there, Atlanta would have won in a walk. Moreover the matter had been aired at the convention and it was voted to leave the decision with the Executive Committee.

His delay in this matter was MISCONDUCT, and it is properly stigmatized as such in Atlanta's second invitation.

There is nothing in the history of either my own or any previous administration to justify his course in the case. His reference to my own methods of securing legislation by the committee, moreover, stands on one leg, and that leg a sawed-off stump. Any member of my cabinets was privileged to make a motion.

In two instances I begged the maker of such motions to withdraw them. At another time I ruled a motion made by my dearly beloved friend, the Reverend Mr. J. H. Cloud, out of order. The first two motions referred to were made by my equally beloved friend, Mr. Hanson. One was made way back in 1893, following the Chicago Congress. It was to the effect that we appropriate the munificent sum of $100 wherewith to print cards bearing the manual alphabet and flooding the country therewith. I pointed out to our friend the utter absurdity of his motion, and begged him to withdraw it. But Olof, then as now, was pig-headed, or hog-headed, take your choice, Mr. Editor, and willy nilly I submitted the motion to the committee. It had thirty-four members, Mr. Editor, and the recollection gives me the writer's cramp even now. Suffice it to say that Mr. Olof's motion was snowed under, but one vote being recorded in its favor, Mr. Olof's, videlicet.

The second motion referred to had to do with inflicting chastisement upon your correspondent's unworthy corporosity, in that he squandered the sweat-earned money of the Association in publishing the St. Louis report, a thing he was expressly commanded to do by the Congress itself.

I again turned all the honeyed flow of my persuasion loose upon our good friend's perspicacity. Commiserate me, Mr. Editor. Olof was again pig-headed, hog-headed, and in addition shoat-headed. The Communituu-tion must be vindicated! The only concession I could win from his wooden-neck complacency was permission to delay putting his motion until the Committee was in actual session at Norfolk.

I breathed a sigh of relief. Think of it, Mr. Editor, that Committee had thirty-five members!

But the motion was duly presented. Any one curious as to its fate can find it recorded in the report of the Norfolk proceedings.

I am prompted to ask, Mr. Editor, in the light of recent experience, what Mr. Hanson's legislative record would be at this moment had he a committee of thirty-five to keep in touch with. Your columns would have been swamped and the gold on your lovely old head would be faded silver as one result.

The plain truth is that the several questions that came before my committees were of a nature as to admit of a ready answer by each individual member, when it came to casting a vote. I point with pride to the fact that the dissenting votes on the numerous motions I submitted to my three committees numbered less than those on any almost important motion Mr. Hanson has so far submitted. I also point with satisfaction to the circumstances that all the really necessary legislation during my last administration was accomplished within thirty days after the adjournment of the Norfolk Convention.

One result was that for three whole years Colorado Springs was the cynosure of the eyes of the educated deaf of the whole country. Every body wished he could come, and everybody who could, did come.

We had a convention to be proud of, a convention that lifted the N. A. D. to a higher plane than it ever reached before. All Mr. Hanson had to do was to let well enough alone and to adopt my modus operandi. I was anxious for the success of his administration, and the experience of the past was to the effect that nothing was so apt to keep up enthusiasm as a quick decision as to the next meeting place. Had Atlanta been selected, I am confident the Association would have close to one thousand members in the South enrolled now. Had it been Omaha, the clans in Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and the entire Central West would have responded with a vim. Interest in the Association would be way above what it is now.

But all this has nothing to do with the point at issue. The Atlanta deaf are eminently justified in accusing Mr. Hanson of Misconduct. No matter what his personal opinion, the Freeman motion should have been submitted then and there. The burden of the decision would rest with the entire committee and not upon Mr. Hanson individual. 'Tis true, 'tis true, 'tis true.

I have one more point to raise. There was recently a vote taken on a matter of very great importance to the Association—the Moving Picture Fund. This vote as given out stood five to four in favor of a measure advocated by Mr. Hanson. Two of the five votes were cast by members who had not paid their dues up to June 1, when the fiscal year of the Association begins. At the time they were NOT members of the Association, and therefore not of the Executive Committee. Properly those two votes should be thrown out, and the result stand four to three against Mr. Hanson's wishes.

Now what will you do about it, Mr. Hanson, great champion of law and order?

Yours truly,

GEORGE WM. VEDITZ,

Greatest Irrigation Project.

A recent news despatch from Washington, stating that construction of the Eagle dam in the canyon of the Rio Grande north of El Paso has been started and that its completion would settle forever the controversy of the United States and Texas with Mexico over the use of the water in that river, gave no adequate idea of the importance of project. For this dam, located in the new State of New Mexico, is expected to furnish the basis for the most extensive irrigation project the world over has seen. The dam will cost $7,000,000, and when finished will be larger than the famous Assuan dam in Egypt.

By its walls, 265 feet high and 1400 feet long, the entire flow of the river will be held for three years, eventually to form a lake thirty-four miles long and two and one half miles wide. Thereby 525,000 acres of land in New Mexico, Texas and Mexico will be supplied with moisture.

Engineers all over the world are keenly interested in this stupendous work, which is to cover a period of eight years; and still it was little more than a year ago that country-wide attention was drawn to the undertaking by the visit of the Senate Irrigation Committee of Elephant Butte. Government sanction was quickly bestowed upon the project as the result of that expedition, and plans worked out for an immense structure between two solid rock banks, creating the largest storage reservoir in the world, having a capacity of 2,500,000 acre-feet of water.

It was twenty years ago that Mexico protested against obstructing the flow of the Rio Grande by the denuding of the Colorado watershed. After extended conferences the United States agreed to impound the waters of the river and divide them with Mexico free of expense to the latter country. By constructing the Eagle dam, then, the United States proceeds to fulfill its treaty obligation to Mexico, and helps two of its own States simultaneously. The distribution of benefit appears to be a fair one.—Monitor.

PHILADELPHIA.

News items for this column should be sent to James S. Belder, 1538 North Dover Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The following was reported by the Philadelphia Record on August 1st:—

"Considerable mystery surrounds the shooting of Eugene McCarthy, of No. 2240 North Seventh Street, who was found at midnight on Sunday near Delaware Avenue and Arch Street, with a bullet wound in his arm. McCarthy was discovered in a semi-conscious condition by Policeman Liston, of the Fourth district, and was rushed to the Pennsylvania Hospital, where he is now undergoing treatment. His injuries are not considered serious.

The case was not reported to City Hall for some time, and a rumor gained ground that McCarthy had been shot by a policeman. This was denied, however, and it was said that McCarthy had been hit by a stray bullet, while he was returning from Atlantic City, where he had spent Sunday."

The bullet was of 32 calibre and was extracted from the left arm near the elbow. Unless blood poisoning sets in, Mr. McCarthy will be all right in a short while. He is to be congratulated that he escaped more serious injury.

Saturday evening, August 5th, All Souls' Guild Hall was crowded to the doors with deaf who had come to spend a pleasant evening there. It was the occasion of the ice-cream social of the Philadelphia Branch, No. 30, N. F. S. D. In the absence of President Davis, who was away on his vacation, Secretary R. E. Underwood opened the meeting and called on Rev. Mr. Dantzer to say a few words of introduction to the Rev. James H. Cloud, a St. Louis "frat," who was visiting here at that time. Mr. Dantzer humorously referred to his college days to tell of his first meeting with Mr. Cloud and his impression of the man. He did not think an introduction necessary, for Mr. Cloud is no stranger here, so it was given more as a courtesy than a formality.

Rev. Mr. Cloud replied to Mr. Dantzer in the same happy vein, and then told of his affiliation with the N. F. S. D. and the beautiful principles which underlie that organization. This was followed by a twenty-minute story of intense interest.

Mr. C. E. Luther, another visiting "frat," of Hartford, Conn., next made a brief speech, and the rest of the evening was spent in sociality and partaking of refreshments. As anticipated, an enjoyable evening was had by all. Other visiting "frats" were: Messrs. Felix J. Bonvouloir and William Friek, also of Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Laura B. Slater, of Newark, N. J.; Mr. Isaac R. Allen, of Hartsville, Pa., and Mr. John Denlinger, of Lancaster, were also visitors, and all sections of the city were represented in the large attendance, which was a surprise.

On Sunday morning, at 10:30 o'clock, the Holy Communion was celebrated at All Souls' Church, Rev. Mr. Cloud being celebrant with Rev. Mr. Dantzer assisting. The former also preached an inspiring and practical sermon on the duty of holding on to the Faith for protection from evil influences.

Rev. Mr. Cloud is spending a week here among his friends, who are delighted to see him again. On this Thursday evening, August 10th, Mr. Cloud will deliver a lecture before the Clero Literary Association.

The Philadelphia Local Branch, P. S. A. D., will meet at All Souls' Hall next Saturday evening, August 12th. It will be an open meeting to advertise the coming convention in Harrisburg. All will be welcome.

Friday, August 4th, was the 27th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Partington, and the two young daughters, who are remaining home with them, Misses Gertrude and Hilda, surprised them by arranging a fine supper and inviting friends to it. Needless to say that the parents enjoyed the surprise very much.

Freddie Dantzer, who early in the Summer had been contemplating a trip to the "wild and woolly West" or Indiana, is now coining vacation money in a cigar factory in Tioga. A good way to learn the value of money, eh!

Study the program of the Harrisburg Convention in another part of the JOURNAL. There was considerable delay in making some important arrangements, but everything is right now. At least, we hope so.

Revs. Dantzer and Cloud visited the Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf at Doylestown, last Saturday. Mr. Cloud says he was very favorably impressed by what he saw there. Just as others say.

Miss Laura Ziegler, of Carlisle, Pa., is spending the summer with Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Ziegler in Mt. Airy. All three expect to leave for Carlisle on the 17th.

Dr. A. L. E. Crouter left for Florida last Saturday. He will return in about two weeks in time for the convention at Harrisburg. He has promised to attend it, unless prevented.

The local deaf are again reminded that the service at All Souls' Church next Sunday and on the other Sundays in August will be at 8 P.M. Remember this and tell others.

Denver, Colo.

Mrs. Veditz, of Colorado Springs, will be the guest of Mrs. Mount this month.

W. S. Clarke has gone to Michigan and Chicago, and thence to Washington, D. C., where he is visiting his mother and sister. His mother is working for the government. He said, after returning from Washington, he would try to look for work as a bookbinder in Chicago. He has lived in Denver for twenty-two years and he wanted a change.

Wm. Riekey went back to his old home in Michigan and got a job as a carpenter. He was one of the heaviest men in the city, weighing between 200 and 215 pounds, which depends on the season. The climate out here does not agree with him, as he has asthma.

Mr. and Mrs. Michelson and three children formerly of St. Louis, Mo., left for Utah, where they peddle. They are heading for California.

Mr. and Mrs. Mosby and children, who lived in the city a few years, moved to Colorado Springs, where Mr. Mosby got a job as a stone carver or cutter.

Messrs. Horton and Swink, of Salem, Oregon, stopped at Denver for awhile and went on their way to Delavan, Wis. Mr. Horton came back, and lives with his mother. Mr. Swink has been in Indiana, returned this week, and is visiting with his sister.

Miss Ethel Ritchie visited Mrs. Lessley and after leaving Denver, went to Canada to spend the summer with her sister. She comes back to her post as teacher at the Colorado School.

Mrs. Northern, nee Miss Drumm, is proud of a baby girl that came last May. She lives on a fruit farm near Rocky Ford, Colorado.

Mr. Coyne, who has spent the past year with his old friends, left for Washington, where he is employed at a brick yard.

Mrs. Lessley and three children and Mrs. Reid have just returned from a trip to Fort Collins, where they spent a week with Mrs. Collins and the latter's parents.

James Tuskey has returned to Rocky Ford, to clean machines in a beet sugar factory before the beet harvest begins.

Adolph Peterson left for St. Louis, Mo., some time ago, where he secured a position as an operator on a type-setting machine.

Miss Snow who has been the guest of Mrs. Lohrke, on East Colfax Avenue, has returned to her home in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Capehart and two children have spent a few months with their relatives in Pueblo. They are now in Colorado Springs for awhile, and are expected to come back to Denver as their permanent home.

Ben. W. Cunningham needs a short vacation. He has spent much time raising chickens. He takes a week or two outing in Clear Creek Canon.

John Wharton has been in Missouri for some months, visiting his relatives and friends, and is expected to return this fall.

Mr. Connell, a well known dry farmer, had taken up a homestead five years ago, and expects to sell it for good this year. He says the running water on a desert land is better than dry farming, which does not moisten enough to raise crops, mainly due to the drought or scarcity of rain and snow during the season. He is a pressfeeder, and earns enough money to buy a team, so he can buy a tract of irrigated land.

An impostor was sent to the county jail. A police magistrate said his incarceration would help open his ears in ninety days. It was due to the a, b, c, card peddling stunt.

Luther Alford, after returning from the city park, was slugged on the face by a trio of men on Capitol Hill. He caught one of them by the neck and choked him nearly out of breath, while two of them ran away, and a pedestrian hearing the screams, came to his assistance. The hold-up, who was sentenced to the county jail, was asked who his accomplices were, but refused to tell.

Mr. and Mrs. Dixon picked up a farm life again and moved to Hill Top, Colorado, last Wednesday, thirty miles south of Denver. Their brick house, worth $3,500, was traded for a two-room house, 160 acres of land (in a rain belt), partly in cultivation and meadow, including twenty cows and calves, three horses, twenty hogs and pigs, a lot of chickens and a few implements. They milk eleven cows, ship cream to the Denver Creamery by express and make a profit of $57 a month, leaving milk as soup to the pigs.

In last week's issue we noticed Pueblo, Colorado, as a heading without signature, and we know who wrote it. Hello, Mr. Jones, we are glad to have him write as often as he can, and let us say something in regard to the soap peddling stunt in which he described their doings in Pueblo. That may surprise him. A few months ago it leaked out that a divorced woman, formerly of Omaha, Neb., was married to a divorced man. After marriage they disappeared and went to Pueblo for the purpose of peddling soap as partners in business. They are able-bodied people—he can dig as well as a strong man; she can wash as well as a strong washerwoman—they prefer to make get-rich-quick their business.

The Acme of Impertinence!

There is a form of megalomania in which the afflicted person sees all the trifling faults of his fellow men magnified into wilful depravity, while, at the same time, he is oblivious to his own defects, which may be greater and more reprehensible than those which he fancies he sees in others. The Secretary of the National Association of the deaf is, apparently, so afflicted, and will receive attention. It is the acme of impertinence for a subordinate official to assume that the errors, real or fancied, of his superior confers the license to deride him in the public press, and that the office of secretary carries with it the prerogative to go behind or question executive edicts. Such minor official has no discretion in matters of this kind. He is simply the instrument through which orders go to make them binding. Consequently the pretended fears for consequences on the part of the Sec. of the N. A. D., in the matter of the printing of proceedings of the N. A. D., were pusillanimous and really tend show him up in his true light.

There could be no more glaring and convincing an illustration than this of the hypocrisy of this Secretary and his gang in their efforts to discredit president Hanson, and of the character of the arguments they employ to conceal their mutiny and disloyalty.

The mocking suggestion relating to the creation of an attorney-general, was entirely gratuitous and demonstrates an utter lack of balance and dignity.

There is no excuse or palliation for such talk as this. It is very fortunate that such unwarranted aspersions should be bandied about at this particular time against the head of the N. A. D., when the minds of its members are so deeply concerned with other serious questions that demand concentrated study.

It is this silly clap-trap, given out by its secretary, who is supposed to know what he is talking about, which have caused most of the prejudice against the N. A. D., and it certainly is high time the interests of the N. A. D. and the good of its service demand that this official should forthwith cease supplying misleading and irrelevant data to the papers with which to excite unjust ridicule and prejudice against the N. A. D. or its president. It is simply inexcusable for an official to perpetrate such deliberate exaggeration and misrepresentation of conditions, and there can be but one reason for it—namely, the desire to humiliate President Hanson.

The N. A. D. is not going to permit itself to be made a laughing stock of, and any of its servants who presume upon their office to do this, do it at their peril.

I am now going drive home my previous remarks and show that the logical outcome of them should bear fruit in an increased membership of the N. A. D.

In the ordinary course of events, had things been permitted to go as they did 30 years ago, when no N. A. D. was in existence, the probability is that the deaf as a class would still be as isolated and neglected as they then were.

Now all that is altered, and I would like to know what can now be done to bring about a result that would give them a better standing in this world.

Any improvement of a general character can only be brought about through the medium of the N. A. D., and by our staunch support of it. I am quite aware that I here tread on debatable ground, but I have no doubt whatever on this point, that no matter what the Association has not done, what it has done has all been in the direction of improving the position of the deaf, while as to what it could do if it had the support of the entire body of the deaf, as it ought to have, there is no end to the possibilities.

The deaf are, as a class, of more than ordinary intelligence, and necessarily so, but why it is that they do not see it to their advantage to unite and work together for a common end, passes my comprehension. Almost every other class of people are so organized that when occasion requires they are at once ready to act with decision and telling effect.

The deaf should set aside petty differences, and their cry should not be what has the Association done for them, but what can it do, and if each individual would only listen to reason and sink selfishness and self, if the counsels of bear and forbear could only prevail, the policy of union, rather than disintegration, adopted, they would soon be on a different footing. Above all, let it be the duty of each of us to cultivate the habit of thinking for ourselves. Because some of our companions have a grudge against the N. A. D. or its officers, on account of imaginary grievances, and refuse to be associated with it, that is no reason why each of us should act in the same way.

The enemies of the N. A. D. are a crafty set, and the deaf will realize, sooner or later, that they have nothing to gain and everything to lose by association with them, and helping them in their schemes, and by analyzing every phase of the question, they will arrive at the decision that if, after all the hard work that has been done to receive recognition of their rights is to have any abiding result, the N. A. D. deserves the heartiest support of all of them.

CAREFULNESS.

By carefulness we mean to have or show a regard concerning some person, thing or event. Every undertaking in life should be performed with much carefulness. Carelessness often causes the loss of many a life and breaks up many a home. By being careless we will never succeed, and will at all times be going down the ladder step by step. By being careful we can feel sure of success in this severe world, and some day can rise to some high prominence.

Before a very young child leaves its mother, she always says "take heed and be careful." The child takes this to heart and says "all-right." A few minutes later the mother is alarmed with the news that her child has been killed by a train. The mother, terrified, is now heart-broken, and says, "Oh! what a fool I was to let such a young child go alone."

Well, this is a sad case of carelessness. Had the mother been more careful about her child, maybe this youth might have grown up to be an important factor in our land. Carelessness robbed the life of this child.

In our own printing-office, the apprentice is very careful to see that his "case" is free from "pi." One type being out of place will cause a great deal of disturbance when the time comes to set up the "copy."

Our bodies are like an engine, and we must be very careful to supply it with coal and to clean all its parts thoroughly. If we left our body alone and allowed it to be dirty, then it would soon dwindle and die. But, if we are careful, then we will grow to be tall, hale and hearty young men, willing to work, and ready to be careful in all undertakings in life's long campaign.

If the engineer on a train finds fault with the engine, and the train does not run correctly, then it is his business to determine where and what the mistake is. If he is careless, and does not care whether the train runs wrong or right, the engineer is apt to sacrifice the lives of others just because of his carelessness. When padding a canoe, the least bit of carelessness, as we all know, will turn it turtle. If the canoe is padded with carefulness, seeing that each stroke is moved with correctness, then the canoe will glide over the waters smoothly.

In 1818 Napoleon Bonaparte lost the famous battle of Waterloo through carelessness. He was a brave man, but did not fight for his country's sake. He wanted to show the world how powerful he was, till Wellington overran him and defeated him. Another case of carelessness is shown at a battle during the Civil War, between the Confederate Army, under command of General Early, and the Unionists under Sheridan. Sheridan deserves the credit for being careful, while Early's carelessness allowed him to be whipped in the battle of Cedar Creek. General Sheridan was very wary in the battle, and determined to be careful and not risk a battle against so skillful a general as Early. Early, becoming careless, sent a detachment of his army to Petersburg, and allowed Sheridan to attack him and his army. Pope, the distinguished poet, in one of his narrations quotes:

" * * * Thus wisely careless, innocently gay,"

NEW YORK.

News items for this column, should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter or on a postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

Saturday, August 5th, 1911, was just fine for an outing, hence the League of Elect Surds again scored a big success at their annual Outing and Games, at Ulmer Park Athletic Field.

The baseball game between the Fanwood and Xavier Deaf Mute Base Ball Clubs brought a big crowd very early.

While the Fanwoods were at practice an accident occurred which almost put out of commission Grand Ruler Anthony Capelli, who was fixing a cushion on first station, Hudson Wells from third base threw a swift one to William Garrison, who did not catch, but which was stopped from its travel by Mr. Capelli's left ear, causing him much agony and pain the rest of the day.

But to return to the game, it was well worth the price of admission, and was witnessed by a large crowd throughout. The grand stand was filled.

'Tis true the Fanwoods won 5 to 0, but nevertheless the Xaviers put a very good article of ball.

After the game, which was a full nine innings game, Grand Ruler Anthony Capelli of the League of Elect Surds, presented the Silver Loving Cup to Frank Nimmo, the manager in charge of the Fanwood team, and then a group of the team with the cup displayed prominently in front was photographed.

Below is the score of the game in full:

Two-base hits—Nimmo, 2, Garrison, Thiele. Sacrifice—Flake, 3, Nimmo. Sacrifice—Lieberz, stolen bases—Lieberz, 2, Bayon. Double plays—Blechner to Moster; Reinke to Schmidt. Left on bases—Fanwood, 7; Xavier, A. A., 4. Bases on balls—Dr. Bayon, 5; Of. Dennan, 2. Struck out—By Dennan, 9; by Bayon, 6. Time of Game—Two hours and ten minutes. Umpires—G. Margraf and O. Donnell. Scorer—A. Borochow.

The athletic games followed immediately and carried out as per program.

An extra event for juniors of one mile was added, and this was run off first with four starters. All ran well for two laps, with Harry Goldberg in the lead, but Charles Olsen who was following gained the lead in the last lap and won the race. Harry Goldberg was second, but was pressed for the place by Willie Burke. The winner received a gun metal watch, and two fine silk handkerchiefs went to Master Harry Goldberg.

In the one hundred yards dash Breslau of the Clark Club won with ease, Rathheim of the same club was second, and Gabriel of the Alphabet Club third.

The 220 yards dash was also won by Breslau, who is admitted to be the champion short distance runner among the deaf. Gabriel of the Alphabet Club captured second place.

In the one mile run Ohland (unattached) was first, and H. Friedman of the Clark Club came in second.

In the half mile run first and second places were captured by Clark boys, Messrs. Fischer and Blumenthal.

The two mile run was easily won by Ohland with H. Friedman of the Clark Club second.

Silver and bronze medals were awarded to first and second in the above games.

In the one mile relay race for a very handsome loving cup only two teams entered, the Clark and Xavier Deaf-Mute team, and the Clark boys won by a large margin. The race was not very exciting, owing to there being only two contestants, but at one time when a Xavier boy passed the Clark boy, it looked as if it was going to be a repetition of July 11th, when the Xavier team won the relay race and cup, but the Clark boys only smiled and said wait for the final man. The final man of the Clarks was no other than Breslau, the champion sprinter, and although he had already sprinted home in two races, he ran strong and brought home the bacon—no, the loving cup. Haven't the Clark boys enough loving cups for each member yet?

In the fat men's sprint of 100 yards, Hirson won, and was awarded a Star Safety Razor of the latest make, enclosed in a handsome jeweled case. The second, S. Lowenherz, was given a box of clear Havana, a gift of Deputy Grand Ruler M. Heyman.

In the following games for ladies two of the prizes were presented by Grand Ruler Capelli, and the others by the club.

Ball throwing—Miss Dorothy Nimmo, first; Miss Agnes Valley, second. Both of the above young ladies are still pupils at Fanwood.

Fifty yards dash—Final heat, Miss Felme, first; Miss Krumholz, second.

Fifty yards running backwards—Miss Kraus, first; Miss Agnes Valley, second.

The ladies who came in first in above games had the pick of the prizes, and those who came in second got the other prizes.

Now let us go back again to the box office to our friend, Mr. E. Sonweine, whose abode is Grantwood, N. J. He was still there, in fact did duty until dusk.

Henry Kohlman rendered valuable assistance to the committee. He took in the tickets, smiled, shook hands with the majority who came and was strong at the finish.

Misses Bessie Miller and Lillie Capelli rendered assistance, the first named in helping to receive tickets, and the later in distributing the booklets which contained the program.

The most credit for the success of the affair rightly belongs to Mr. Max Miller. It was he who did the planning and most work during the past three months or more, and during the day of the outing he was as busy as a bee.

Mr. Charles J. LeClerc, also of the Committee of Arrangements, had charge of the games, and also acted as Referee as well. The officials were: Starter, Dr. T. Fox; Judges, J. Black, W. Bowers, Hugo Schmidt, D. Wasserman and A. C. Stern; Clerk of Course, J. D. Shea. Mr. A. Capelli received the entrance fees in the games.

Taken altogether the games were well conducted, to the satisfaction of the contestants, and pleasure of the spectators who filled the grand stand seats and crowded the railing. It is conceded to have been the largest of any outings given by the deaf for many a year.

The evening was pleasantly passed in dancing and conversation with friends and schoolmates and forming new acquaintances. Mr. Harry Cooke, he of sign-painting and baseball umpire fame and general good fellow, was floor manager, and a corps of members were assistants.

The music, which was fine, was as usual furnished by our friend, Prof. B. Hielman and his men.

Floor Committee—T. I. Lounsbury, L. Lowenstein, M. Campbell, L. Waters, A. L. Pach, L. N. Soper, H. Schuerman, F. W. Nuober and L. Taylor.

Arrangement Committee—Max Miller (Chairman), C. J. LeClerc and E. Sonweine.

Honorary Members—Enoch H. Carrier, William E. Hoy, Douglas Tilden, Sidney Vail, Joseph Chazal, R. V. Desperriers, Henry Gaillard, Henry Genis, Fernand Hamar, Felix Plessis, Emil Mercier, Henri Mercier, William B. Hurst, Francis Maginn, Ed. A. Klotzfeld, Gerhard Titz, Lars A. Havstad and M. Czempin.

The drawing for the ten dollars certificate of Uncle Sam's currency was won by Mr. Samuel A. Gomprecht. Oh! you lucky Sam!

The next Outing of the League of Elect Surds will be on Saturday, August 3d, 1912.

With the picnic of the L. E. S. now a thing of the past, up looms the outing of the Brooklyn Frats, scheduled for August 26th. If success begets success, as a good friend remarks, then look out for this affair, for the three previously held at Ulmer Park this season were more than ordinarily successful. Ulmer Park, by the bye, has become so familiar that no one needs to be told how to get there. A programme of the field events will be published next week and the week after, thus giving our enterprising athletes plenty time to get in readiness for the fray. The relay race especially promises to be the event of the year. Entries have been received from the teams representing the Clark House A. A., Xaviers, Alphabets, and several others. The cup offered to the winning team will prove a revelation. In beauty, design and cost, it has all the others beaten to a frazzle. Prizes worth striving for are held out as inducements to the participants in the other events to attempt to break records. More anon.

By kind permission of the Principal and Board of Directors of the New York Institution, the Guild of Silent Workers will hold a Lawn Fete on the Institution's spacious grounds, on Saturday afternoon and evening, August 19th. The affair will begin at two o'clock in the afternoon, and as the entire proceeds will be devoted to aiding the sick and needy, a small fee of fifteen cents will be charged for badges. A game of baseball will be played between a representative team of Fanwood Cadets and some other unformed nine. There will also be athletic games free to all, with small prizes to winners. The games for ladies will include: Ball throwing, potato race, 50-yard dash, etc. For gentlemen: One mile run (for juniors), 100-yards dash, 50-yards dash, 220 yards run, ball throwing, potato race, three-legged race, etc. The Guild Committee will have on sale ice cream, lemonade, sandwiches, etc. It is hoped all the deaf of Greater New York will attend and have a good time, while helping the cause of sweet charity.

Louis De Lance, son of Louis De Lance, Sr., and son of Mrs. Louise Virginia Venuto, better now known as Mrs. Lombardi, passed away at St. John College, Fordham, of which he was a student, after an operation for appendicitis. His body was placed in the tomb at Woodlawn Cemetery. Mrs. Lombardi is wealthy in her own right, and two years from now she will have possession of the wealth in which Louis De Lance left her in his will. Mrs. Lombardi is noted for her kindness and charity to the poor.

Not apparently satisfied with the good-enough cold air breeze of New Rochelle, N. Y., Mrs. Barney Siegel went to her old love, Philadelphia, for a stay of a week with her mother and family as well as renewing acquaintances with old cronies. Then to the farm she shall spend with her mother and sister Sadie Pollock. In the meantime poor Barney is trying to keep himself alive by his skill (?) as a chef and general housekeeper!

Christian E. Vernon went fishing at Midland Beach two times. First time he caught seven large plaice and the second time he got ten of the same. A few weak and blue fish were caught by other men, but none came to his bait. He is going to try again with different tackle and bait for the blue fish. He went to Long Beach once, but the result was negative.

Mr. Sidney J. Vail was warmly greeted by many of his New York friends, when he appeared at Ulmer Park last Saturday. They congratulated him upon the recent honor conferred by Gallaudet College which gave him the degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy. Mr. Vail is spending the summer at Murray Hill, N. J., and is looking in splendid health.

Joe Sweyd has taken a week's vacation, and will spend it traveling west, stopping at Albany, Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, and from there to New York. In his absence Mr. Dan Wasserman will take his place as track manager of the Clark athletes.

Mrs. S. J. Bayne, of the Gallaudet Home wants to know about her oldest daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Egan. Is she alive or dead? Miss Warren told her last Sunday that she read in the New York Times that Mrs. Egan died last week.

On August 1st, Mr. William Lipgens arrived on the steamer "Kaiser Wilhelm II." He visited Vienna, Paris and other cities. Next summer he will go to Paris for the 200th Centennial Celebration of Abbe De l'Epee.

A fine baby-boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dietrich, of New Jersey, July 26th, at 6:45 A.M., weighing seven and three-fourth pounds. Mother and the baby are doing well.

Samuel Frankenheim is now in Calgary, Canada, a fine and progressive city built on a plateau which overlooks the Rockies.

HURRAH.

An interesting piece of history is connected with the origin of the word "hurrah." The exclamation is fully a thousand years old, and dates back to the time of Rolf, or Rolf, the first Duke of Normandy. Rolf was a famous viking, or sea robber, a respectable profession in those days. With his band of followers from Norway he sailed up the Seine and ravaged the country on each bank, laying towns waste and killing all who opposed him. At last Charles the Simple, the King of France, was wise enough to make a treaty with Rolf, ceding to him the country now known as Normandy, and giving him the princess in marriage, the conditions being that Rolf should become a vassal of the king and embrace Christianity. To these Rolf readily agreed, and became in time a good ruler of this realm. He caused the ruined towns to be repaired, protected the farmers and made robbery unknown. He died in 971, leaving Normandy much better than he found it.

The French people called Rolf "Rou," and during his rule a law was made that if any man was in danger himself or caught his enemy doing any damage he could raise the cry, "Ha! Rou!" and so invoke justice in Rolf's name. At the sound of the cry everybody was bound on the instant to give chase to the offender, and whoever failed to respond must pay a heavy fine to Rolf himself. Thus originated our word "hurrah."—Sel.

ST. LOUIS.

J. H. May, 5851 Von Versen Ave. St. Louis, Mo.

Austin Baird, of Bridgeport, Ill., was in the city recently on business. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sutton.

On a recent Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Sutton and two sons departed for Granite City, Ill., where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson. In the afternoon, Mesdames Sutton and Wilson took a bee-line for Alton, Ill., where they visited Mesdames Youngberg and Schwartz. Messrs. Wilson and Sutton went to Horse Shoe Lake the same afternoon.

Local Branch, No. 24, of the N. F. S. D., will give a lawn fete on Saturday evening, August 12th, at the home of Wm. Rubeling, 6319 Elm Avenue, in Wellston, Mo. Take the Hodamont Avenue or Wellston Avenue cars and ride to the end of the line. Everybody is welcomed to help boom a worthy cause.

ACCIDENT TO JOHN C. O'BRIEN.

Again John C. O'Brien comes to the front as one of the few deaf-mutes that are hard to kill. For the last fifteen years the writer has known that Mr. O'Brien has met with a number of accidents that would easily have killed an ordinary man. Like the proverbial cat that lives nine lives, Mr. O. lives to tell his experiences. Last month, while at work in the car shops, Mr. O. was standing on a ladder leaning against a street car. A motor man got aboard the car to run it out. He started the car ahead without looking behind. Only after some one notified him that O'Brien was injured did he stop the car. Mr. O. fell on his back and head, and sustained a deep cut in the back of his head. He was picked up and conveyed to the hospital. His wound was attended, but he was laid up for two weeks with full pay. For the motorman's carelessness he was suspended from work for five weeks. Mr. O. is again on deck.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bell, of Ronnell's place in Maplewood, Mo., a pleasant social party was an event Saturday afternoon, July 30th. It was given in honor of Miss Jane Fulkerson, of Lexington, Mo., by her aunt, Mrs. Bell. Miss Fulkerson is spending the summer days with her relations. Those present: Mr. and Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Misses Hazel and Bettie Bell, Laura Flakamp and Misses Edith Bell and Jennie Fulkerson, in addition to Messrs. Stumpe, Sittig and Tureczeki.

"FULTON, Mo., August 1.—Coming, prepared for work, Prof. Simon T. Walker, of Portland, Ore., delved immediately into the duties before him yesterday, after his appointment as head of the Missouri School for the Deaf. "Mr. Walker has been head of three schools of this character during his life-time, and is fully acquainted with all the details of the work. He was a personal friend of Dr. Noble B. McKee, whom he succeeds, and his ideas conform strongly with those of the former head of the local school.

"As a result there will be practically no changes. Superintendent Elect Walker will devote the remainder of the month to arranging the details for the opening of the school, which occurs the first week in September."

Mrs. Lulu Cloud and Miss Pearl Herdmann are mourning the loss by death of their beloved mother, who departed this life recently at Taylorville, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stack and children, of Cuba, Mo., are in the city, stopping at Mr. and Mrs. Berwin's.

LeRoy Sittig received a beautiful pearl-handled pocket knife from his beloved mother, who is visiting in Michigan during the summer.

"Leon Smith, marriage license clerk of East St. Louis, was in his office Thursday waiting for Cupid to get busy, when a young man and a young woman walked in.

"Want a license?" Smith said affably to the young man. There was no response.

"I'll do the talking," said the girl, smiling.

"Smith regarded the young man with sympathetic eyes and sighed. It was too bad. Here was a deaf-mute, whose affliction made it impossible for him to hear or answer the clerk's questions.

"Instead of questioning the man, as is the custom, Smith turned to the young woman.

"My name is Clara Putnam and his is Albert Sommerfeldt," she said. "We are both from St. Jacob's, Ill."

"Smith told Miss Putnam she would have to make affidavit as to Albert's age.

"'Albert is an orphan,' she said. 'To the best of my knowledge he is twenty-one years old. His only relative is a brother, who is not his guardian. His father died several weeks ago. On his death-bed he gave consent to our marriage.'

"Albert continued to twirl his hat and study the carpet. Smith prepared the necessary affidavit blanks and was handing them to Miss Putnam to sign when he heard a sob. Looking around, he saw that tears were running down Albert's cheeks. To his even greater surprise, Albert stepped forward and said:

"I can't tell a lie." He paused to weep some more and added: "I'm only twenty years old. I won't be a man until March 3d next year."

"Miss Putnam quieted her fiancé, and they left the office promising to return when they found somebody to act as guardian to Albert and give consent to the marriage."

Rev. C. Schnibkegel will preach for us Sunday afternoon, August 13th, at Zion Lutheran Chapel, 2005 Benton Street, at three o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

Miss Emma Waschowski and mother, of Des Moines, Ia., arrived Saturday for one week's stay in St. Louis. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Herbert Matthews mourns the loss of her beloved grandmother, who died recently. Grandmother had been very ill eight weeks, and now she is sadly missed by Mrs. Matthews.

On Sunday, July 30th, Messrs. Stumpe and Brockmann visited Roy Sittig, where they dined. In the afternoon all three visited the magnificent Art Museum in Forest Park. In the evening they went to a moving picture show on Delmar Avenue.

On July 29th, twenty-nine prisoners from St. Louis were sent to State prison at Jefferson City. Among them were Thomas Meehan, a deaf-mute, sent up for two years on the charge of killing his brother-in-law.

A local paper says:

"One in the number will feel less at home than the others, for he is deaf and dumb. He is Thomas Meehan, the 'dummy,' who must serve two years for killing his brother-in-law, Thomas McGuire. Meehan originally was sentenced to ten years. His attorneys asked the sentence be shortened because of the circumstances surrounding the killing. A written statement prepared by Meehan moved Judge McQuillan to reduce the penalty to two years."

J. E. Campbell departed Saturday for a vacation of several weeks to Michigan and South Dakota.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dieckmann and children have been spending three weeks with relatives at Warrentown, Mo. Mr. Dieckmann has just returned home to work at the stove factory.

Miss Ruth Gibson is the latest subscriber to the JOURNAL. She has been living in St. Louis with her parents for three years. She attended the Fulton and Jacksonville schools.

Rev. Schubkegel preached on the 30th ult., to a good crowd. His son was installed as minister that Sunday morning, and is now a full-fledged clergyman of the Lutheran faith.

FANWOOD.

The victory of the Fanwood team over the "Cherry X" or Xavier contingent was the cause of universal rejoicing around here. The new cup will soon be assigned an honored place. It is now being engraved with the mystic lines showing what it stands for. A glance over the New York column will show many other Fanwoodite victories, both masculine and feminine. All of those who went to the Park say they had the time of their lives.

Miss Craig returned to her post as tutoress last week, and was received by the girls with open arms. The results of her vacation strike the observer at a glance. She looks a good deal better.

The new Matron, Miss Jane Hall Meier, began her duties last week.

Miss Susan Adecock is visiting at the ever-hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Nimmo, Sr., as the guest of their daughter Dorothy.

Principal Currier departed for Essex last Friday afternoon, to enjoy the Lake Champlain breezes from his summer home.

Mr. George I. Lounsbury returned to duty Friday night, wearing a complexion of the color of old Roman gold.

A post-card from Charles Wimuth locates him at Fabyan House, White Mountains, N. H., having a good time amid inspiring scenery. Charlie has a pleasant habit of always dropping a postal or two to his friends.

Editor Hodgson left Wednesday for the Rochester Convention of Deaf-Mutes, of which he is president.

Vernon S. Bircb came up last week with his brother in a big touring car.

OHIO.

[News items for this column may be sent to our Ohio News Bureau, care of Mr. A. B. Greener, 993 Franklin Ave., Columbus, O.]

August 5, 1911.—The JOURNAL'S Ohio Bureau was temporarily removed to Newport, Ky., the first of the week and from here this letter goes.

John Aebi, who quit the Ohio School in 1906, was on the train down to see Cincinnati sights during the day. He works for the West Jefferson Creamery Company in Columbus. Said his hearing is returning and attributes it to his becoming a member of the Christian Science Church of which he is now a firm believer.

Mrs. John K. Sherman went up to Columbus, Monday morning, to attend the funeral of her husband's mother, who died in Denver, Col., and incidentally visited her parents home.

Mrs. R. P. McGregor gave a dinner last Sunday in honor of her summer guest, Miss Annie Barry, of Baltimore, Md., who returns to her home August 9th. Besides the honor guest the invited from Columbus were: Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Greener, Mrs. and Miss Zell, Mr. A. H. Schory, and Miss Bessie Edgar.

Mr. Alfred F. Wood was found busy at work in the Hamilton Co. Records office Tuesday, copying plats into big books. He still wore the cheery smile that has been his wont, but the rosy countenance has given place to one that bespeaks ill health, and in such he has been for some time. Malaria has been his chief enemy; then, also, he has not fully recovered from the injuries inflicted from falling glass of a skylight in the court house a year ago, last January. He showed us some of his work, and it is to his credit that it is done so neatly, since he knew nothing of its details when he began a couple of years ago. He is much liked by his chief and employees of the office for his gentlemanly conduct and endeavor to please. He is also promised a raise in salary in the near future, and he certainly deserves it.

A long cherished desire was realized Wednesday, a visit to the Hoys. A ride of some eight miles northward from Cincinnati, passing through Clifton, noted for its fine residences of wealthy citizens, brought us to Mt. Healthy. We got off the car at the Home for the Blind, and after a short stay, walked over to the Hoy home, which is within a stone's throw. No one seemed to be at home, but going out to the barn the once famous ball-player was found there busy mixing cow feed and his two older children playing about the place.

Soon Mrs. Hoy came out with the youngest child, 19 months old, and there was something doing then in the way of talk. Mr. Hoy certainly has a fine farm, consisting of 24 3/4 acres, a large house which he has improved by the addition of a veranda half way around it, and which affords a good meeting place for their deaf friends when they come out in crowds.

Then he has all by himself erected a milk house, doing the carpenter, plumbing and concrete work himself. Within it he has put up a refrigerator of the most improved pattern. Its inner sides are lined with concrete. The flooring of the milk house is of concrete and the building is supplied with water from the water works. He built his own poultry houses and has now about 300 chickens on hand. During his spare time in the fall he puts in his time making concrete posts. Part of his farm is partitioned off with a wire fence with which are used posts of concrete. He seems to be a jack of all trades, in fact is good at anything. He has sold a couple of his cows and is on the lookout for a like number of improved stock. Neatness prevails about the place, which is most attractive, with its clusters of native trees, among them, not native; was a pecan tree of large growth. It bears but little fruit, however, probably because it is out of its climatic regions. At the roadway gate, as a sentinel, stands a graceful white oak—it would take three persons to entwine it with their outstretched arms. Its age is over 100 years. Near it is the Carey Well, that marks the place near which the Carey Sisters' abode stood. Mr. and Mrs. Hoy with their three children form a happy and contented family. Mr. Hoy has lost interest in the game which brought to him fame, and it is very seldom that he attends a game.

We visited the Deaconess Home over in Cincinnati Friday, and had the pleasure of meeting and forming the acquaintance of Miss Mary Cameron, who a year or so ago attended the Kentucky School for the Deaf, to become acquainted with the language of the deaf. She is engaged in philanthropic work among the deaf in Cincinnati now, upon the same plan as Miss Vinnie Smith, of Chicago. We were shown through the Deaconess Home, and found the institution equipped to carry on its work. It is really a school to prepare young ladies for churchwork and teaching boys and girls trades.

Miss Hilda Bartholem, formerly of the Kentucky and later of the Ohio School, resides in Newport, and we had the pleasure of meeting her the other day. Thursday she was a visitor at the Hoys.

Mr. Zorn and family spent Sunday at the Home, the former conducting religious services in the afternoon for the residents.

Mrs. Hazel Meyer, of Gorden, visited her old schoolmate, Miss Grace Conarroe, at her home in West Elkton, O., last week, and talked over school days. They also had the pleasure of visiting the Miami Valley, Chantanooga.

A. B. G.

Miss Edna Craig went to her home in Georgetown, Ohio, last week, and enjoyed a two days' visit with her folks. She is still working at the shoe factory in Bethel, Ohio, and likes it very much.

Mr. Charles is spending a few weeks with his family in the cottage of his wife's parents by Long Lake, fourteen miles south of Flint, Mich.

Mrs. Harry Swank, of New Bremen, recently returned home from a four weeks' trip, during which she visited in Cincinnati, Ohio; Bellevue and Louisville, Ky., and New Albany, Ind.

PITTSBURG.

The Lawn Fete Committee, with Mrs. Geo. Annis as Chairman, was so pleased with the success of holding the fete in Homewood, on July 22d. A large crowd was present in the evening. Mr. J. McVaine, of Mt. Airy, Pa., was present. Net proceeds fell a little short of twenty-five dollars. Those who helped to make it a success were Mr. and Mrs. Annis, of the lemonade booth, Mr. and Mrs. Barbes, Frank Leitner, F. Blackhall, Miss M. Toomey, of the ice-cream and cake booth, and Mrs. Hansen and daughter, of the candy booth. Misses Daisy Annis and Jesse Scott looked after the sales of "the cabbages," in which valuable things were hidden. It was so well managed that the result was a success.

Rev. Mr. Allabough made his appearance at the lawn fete, and in an instant he was "mobbed" by a large crowd demanding an explanation for the surprise he gave them by marrying Mrs. N. P. Pyle in Omaha, Neb., on July 15th. He received hearty congratulations. Many were disappointed because he did not bring his wife to the lawn fete. The next morning he went to Johnstown, where he held the morning services. The afternoon services were held in Greensburg, Pa. In the evening he preached at Trinity Chapel in this city. At the close of the services, he took the train for Lake Wawasee, in Indiana. Rev. Allabough will visit Pittsburgh on August 19th and 20th.

"Wanted, a deaf artist of good experience, with references," spoke hands to writer by J. M. Rolshouse. A visit to his studio in the Washington Bank Building on Fifth Avenue, found him a "busy artist in despair," working late in the evening to catch up with the orders, which are coming in every day. Royal Durian is one of the artists helping him. Mr. Rolshouse needs another deaf artist, who has some good experience in artist's work. This may be a good tip for any deaf artist, who is willing to come to Pittsburgh and work for Mr. Rolshouse, who will pay good wages, and should take a chance by applying to Mr. Rolshouse.

Vincent Dunn is making himself a valuable player for St. Phillip's Church in the Crafton Church League. His batting and fielding is the talk of the people there. His Club is easily leading the League.

The Pittsburgh-Harrisburg Savings Club, which was organized last year among the deaf people, of this city, for the purpose of going to Harrisburg, Pa., to attend the P. S. A. D. convention this summer, will be disbanded on August 12th, at the residence of their treasurer, Mr. H. B. McMaster, who will make out the checks among the members of the Club.

Miss Emily Appel, of North Side, spent Sunday at Ohio Pyle, and met her friends—Mrs. Danver's folks. She enjoyed the trip so immensely that she wanted so badly to visit the place again. She is now getting up a party to go to Ohio Pyle on August 12th. Already a good number will go.

DEAF, DUMB AND HOMESICK.
A boy wrote on a piece of paper at the North Side Police Station that he was deaf and dumb and wanted to go to New York. He was given a night's lodging. He wrote that his name was Morris Hannish, and that he ran away from school in New York. He was turned over to the Charities Department. The above item appeared in the Gazette-Times.

Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, of Youngstown, O., made a recent visit to this city and made acquaintance with the Pittsburghers. Mr. McMaster took them over to the picnic at Edgewood Park. They look hearty and happy in their old age. It will be remembered that Mrs. Scott (nee Butler), was the first deaf lady to teach in the Ohio School for the Deaf at Columbus, O.

Miss E. Boyd, of East End, invited a number of friends to the "Croquet Party" at her house last Thursday evening, but the rain storm upset her expectations, and instead they managed to have a pleasant time in the parlor, minus the croquet game.

Miss Frances Dedrich, of Johnstown, Pa., is enjoying a week's vacation as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Roessler in Edgewood Park.

How to Measure the Ice.

Here is the Chicago method of keeping tab on the merry loemen without going broke to buy a scale: A cake of ice to weigh 100 pounds contains 3000 cubic inches.

If it is a pretty clear-cut, right-angled block of ice, measure the length in inches of each of three edges that come to a point. Multiply the three numbers together and divide by 30. The resulting figure will indicate the number of pounds in the block.

An irregular block of ice cannot be judged accurately in this manner, but making due allowance you can estimate whether the block is under weight. There should be 30 cubic inches of ice for every pound paid for.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

The South Carolina Association to be Organized.

The South Carolina Association will be organized for the first time, at Cedar Springs, August 15th to 17th, 1911.

The low rates, one cent per mile distance traveled, both ways, have been secured successfully, and the certificates, about 115, have been issued out all over the State. Many have signified to come.

Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia and Virginia, will be represented by former alumni of the school.

Dr. and Mrs. Newton F. Walker will entertain the alumni. It will be the first Grand Alumni Reunion in sixty-three years, and that reunion means much help to organizing the Association.

Mr. Thomas H. Coleman will be acclaimed president, he being fitted for such honor. There will be no hope of vote for him for president, except by acclamation. He is the husband of a former student of the Fanwood School, Miss Decker.

Prof. David Rogers, of the Kansas School, formerly of South Carolina, will be one of the principal speakers. His presence in Cedar Springs will help much in organizing the Association. He is practical in almost everything. He is an experienced teacher of the deaf of thirty-five years standing.

There will be many interesting features in the program, the chief being the moving picture exhibition for the pleasure of many. Dr. Walker borrowed the films from Dr. Currier, of the Fanwood School, which were shown at the Colorado Convention. Dr. Walker has his own films also for exhibition.

Prof. David S. Rogers originated the idea of an association about twenty-five years ago, perhaps; Mr. Thomas H. Coleman did so in his days when he was teaching at Cedar Springs. John T. Carter (deceased) first suggested such an organization.

The writer is the accredited organizer.

Messrs. Thomas Coleman, Cedar Springs, Herbert Smoak, Union, and Lewis Myers, Bowman, are the Committee, who contributed a goodly share in the work for the organization.

The entire program appears below, for the benefit of the readers of the JOURNAL:—

To my Wisconsin Convention

Fraters of 1911:

This is a little talk on the Photographic feature of the convention. All that you can have as tangible souvenir of the happy week we spent at Delavan are photographs from the imperishable image on the plates.

The plates not developed at Delavan are even better than those from which proofs were shown.

The groupings were as follows:

The Whole Body in one photograph.

The Alumni of Gallaudet College.

(This negative is far better than the one from which proofs were shown at Delavan.)

The Superintendents and Principals Group.

(There were two made, that of Monday being unusually excellent, but on account of seven Superintendents not appearing, another group was made on Tuesday at noon. In quality, from the artistic standpoint, Monday's is far better. However, you can have either or both, but kindly specify which one.)
